Cockney Unconvinced

Go West, young man! Young man, go West! –
A famously well-tried behest;
A directional direction he obeys with circumspection;
Occidental exhortation he receives with some dejection.

And he finds himself a station on the District Line to Ealing.
Ealing, no concealing, he just doesn't find appealing –
Which is why this simple fellow, who is known as Cockney Joe,
Insists that there's no place on earth like Oriental Bow.
